

Center for Health Training

Funded by state and federal grants for over 30 years, the Center for Health Training (CHT) specializes in offering education to health care providers in a variety of settings. Using needs assessments, provider meetings, and personal contacts, CHT tailors training and technical assistance to encourage staff development and improve agency effectiveness.

Exploring Intimate Partner Violence and Sexual Coercion

April 6, 2010

9 am - 1 pm

San Luis Obispo, CA

In This Training

This interactive training will explore the issues of intimate partner violence (IPV), including the definition and prevalence, and red flags for client assessment. This training will also examine sexual coercion and strategies for assessment and effective counseling with family planning clients.

By the end of this session, participants will be able to:

- identify factors that contribute to IPV;
- discuss characteristics of a healthy relationship;
- demonstrate counseling strategies to help clients identify IPV and respond to sexual coercion.

Who Should Attend

Staff who directly interact with clients, including clinicians, nurses, medical assistants, counselors, and educators.

Trainer

La Rhonda Crosby-Johnson is a trainer and educational program consultant who has been working in the field of adolescent pregnancy prevention, health, violence prevention and reproductive health care for over 25 years. She has done state-wide training on intimate partner violence and also provides coaching to health and educational professionals. She is a certified integral (life) coach working with individuals and organizations.

Registration

Please send in the registration form by the deadline to ensure a space in this workshop. Do not hesitate to register now; payment need not be sent with registration. If payment is sent later, please include registrant name or a copy of the registration form so proper credit can be given.
